AUNT NELLIE'S WAY

You never heard such a fuss as the children made about milk—especially when it was hot. "Nasty horrid bits of skin," they would cry. It worried Mother! Because they were slim, highly strung children and she knew they needed milk. All children do.

And then Aunt Nellie came on a visit and said there were ways and ways. She knew a way. She went out and bought a tin of Nestlé's Milk and then she took three biscuits. And she spread Nestlé's Milk on each biscuit—spread it thick and had the children lined up.

It acted all right. They get plenty of milk now—always in Aunt Nellie's way. Good milk, clean milk, milk at its creamiest and richest—nourishing milk—Nestlé's Milk.

Sensible Aunt Nellie—and grateful Mother.
